Dr. Ian Jamison, is the Head of Education & Training at the Tony Blair Faith Foundation. Before working for the Foundation, Dr. Jamison taught Religious Education for twenty years, and has an experience of innovative subject leadership in a number of schools across the UK. Involved in the Generation Global programme since its inception, he was part of the team that initially developed the teaching materials, and has been privileged to train teachers, run workshops, and work directly with young people in over 20 countries.

Mr. Matthew Lawrence, is the Director of Programmes at the Tony Blair Faith Foundation. Mr. Lawrence joined the Foundation in 2013 and is responsible for the delivery, assessment and funding of the Foundation's programmes. Additionally, he is also responsible, alongside the rest of the executive team, for determining the Foundation's strategy.

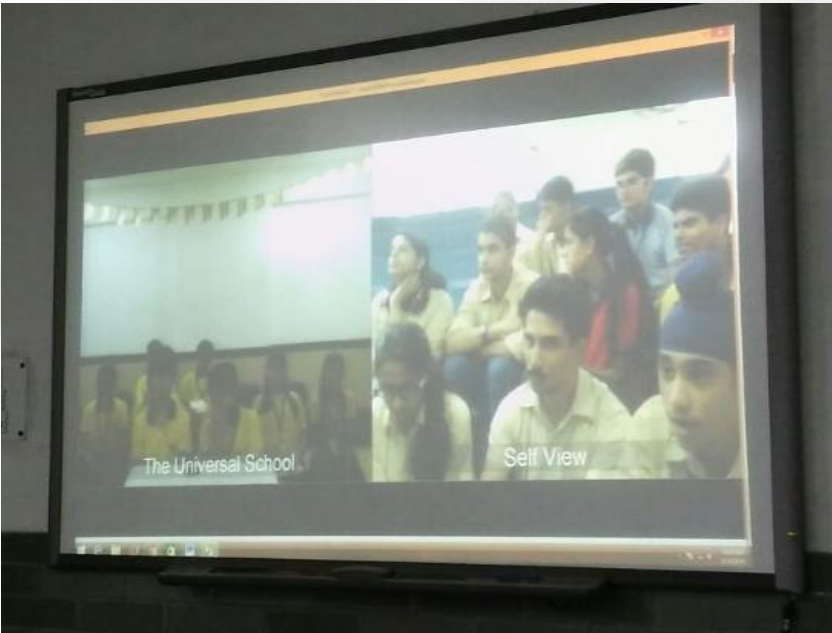

Mr. Milo Comerford, is the Analyst at the Centre of Religion & Geopolitics at the Tony Blair Faith Foundation, leading on research development as well as analysis on the South and Central Asia region. Mr. Comerford's research interests include the evolution of jihadi ideology and propaganda, education and extremism, and Hindu nationalism. He has written for the Independent, the New Statesman and Newsweek, and his research has been featured in the BBC, Wall Street Journal, The Telegraph, CNN, the Sunday Times, and the Daily Beast.

Ms. Sandhya Gupta, is the education consultant for the Tony Blair Faith Foundation based in New Delhi, India. In this capacity, she co-manages the Generation Global programme in India and assists with other TBFF education work in India and Asia. She is largely responsible for expanding TBFF's work in India by developing partnerships with external organisations and local governments in addition to assisting with the implementation of current programmes in over 200 schools around the country.

TIS has become an active member of the Tony Blair Face to Faith Foundation in the past one year.

The aim of this program is to engender open-mindedness, acceptability and mutual respect with the different cultures of the world. Our students have been in a number of video conferences with schools in India , Pakistan and Malaysia . Our students have shared their thoughts and ideologies on a number of topics ranging from diverse faiths to sustainability. Our students have also shared their views on a blogging platform, engaging with their counterparts from other countries.

TEAM BLOGGING

- Students participated in an online blogging platform as part of the Tony Blair Foundation, Face to Faith from 18 January to 12 February 2016. Initially, the students expressed their views on how their environment looked like and what they would like to change about it. Each one of them gained an in depth knowledge about issues pertaining to their surroundings. Moreover, they could browse through the blogs and comments of people in different corners of the world, share their opinion on similar issues, learn to disagree and yet respect others' viewpoint. In the last phase, students posted their experience about blogging and what they learnt thereof. It was inspiring to see the young generation trying to reach people who are separated by miles and seas but connected by heart and faith.
- Ten students from Class IX B participated in a Team Blogging Session on face to faith platform from May 1, 2016 to May 30, 2016. Every week, during the period, the students blogged on the topics related to faith, values and community. It was a great opportunity for students to share their views with their peers from across the globe, as well as get acquainted with their views.
- The blogging session was nothing short of being something unforgettable. The blogging session was from May 1, 2016 – May 22. In the session the students discovered new ideas, opinions and views. The students blogged about peace, its meaning and significance in their lives, the existence of disharmony and the celebration of Indian festivals.
